Workshop #1: Add Pizazz to your studio with Piano Pronto!

Are you ready for fresh, motivating music your students will love? Are your students begging for modern, pop-style music that they can relate to, but you fear that this music has little pedagogical value? Piano Pronto is quickly becoming the go-to publishing house for both method books and supplemental titles to suit the needs of the modern student and modern teachers. In this workshop, author Jennifer Eklund will detail and demonstrate the Piano Pronto method and supplement books in action. Her unique background in both the traditional and popular music realms makes her a leading figure in forward-thinking pedagogy. Come and be inspired by the Piano Pronto story and how you can share the same excitement in your own studio.

Workshop #2: So you want to compose?

For most teachers, teaching composition to students can be as intimidating as a blank page of staff paper. Your students have the desire, you have the interest, but is there an easy, sure-fire guide to follow? The answer is yes. In this workshop, Jennifer Eklund, known in the piano pedagogy field for writing engaging pop-style music that keeps students sparked in their lessons, will guide you through her step-by-step process of teaching students to compose. Her unique, template-based approach, makes it simple for teachers to work with students to construct compositions that are well balanced, memorable, and fun! The beauty of the system lies in its flexible scalability allowing teachers to use the same model with students of all ages and ability levels.
